"I'm an American and just as long as I'm in this country I will keep on going and if there is a chance of reopening the case, I will do it." - Fred T. Korematsu

May 30, 2022, will mark 80 years since Fred T. Korematsu was arrested in San Leandro, California for resisting Executive Order 9066, in which all people of Japanese descent were incarcerated in U.S. concentration camps.

In honor of AANHPI Heritage Month, the Fred T. Korematsu Institute will examine the history of Fred's fight for justice and look forward with a discussion between the founder and executive director of the Fred T. Korematsu Institute, Dr. Karen Korematsu, and our Research and Policy Intern, Jordan Tachibana.
